

Union Volunteers Who Served in Arizona and Are Mentioned in the Hayden Arizona Pioneer Biographical Files

“The arrival of troops at the beginning of the Civil War had a soothing effect on the belligerent element, and afterwards we Americans were not alarmed over our safety.”

-Thomas Farrell, 1832-1915

The late Senator Carl T. Hayden, 1877, 1872, compiled biographical material for some of the Union Volunteers who contributed to the “soothing effect” during Arizona’s Foundering Era. For many of these Union Volunteers the senator also prepared biographical essays of the compiled material. These biographical essays have been converted to portable document files and are listed below.
